HELENE MANZO : A safe place to explore

My work is neither political nor feminist...it is a personal dialogue with paint or ink, emotion, observation, history and intuition. Mark making and color set the mood as the work evolves. During this time of turmoil, isolation, racial inequality and political unrest, my studio has provided a safe place for me explore and meditate on these problems and try to move forward.

I feel that this AFRICAN PROVERB says it all:

“If you want to go fast - go alone
If you want to go far - go together”

I agree Black and white and all of its variations, we need to go together. We must use our vote or equality.
